Something Special in Silk Goods.

IKE most others the Silk market has had the serious difficulty of under production and advancing prices to contend with since the war began, imports of raw materials and the manufactured article have been very much restricted, so that lovers of these beautiful fabrics have to be content with a much smaller variety of the favourite makes. By availing ourselves of a fortunate opportunity we have succeeded in securing a large consignment of these goods on such terms as enables us to offer many lines 25 to 30 per cent. under to-day's price.

We invite and recommend an inspection of the

The German attack upon the fortified area

The German attack upon the fortified area before Verdun increases in intensity, says The Times, but if does not at present cause any greater anxiety than prevailed towards the end of last week. The enemy have succeeded in forcing their way a little farther abrough the French defences, and they claimed once more yesterday to have taken the village of Champneuville. Our Allies, however, are believed to have the situation well in hand, to be pursuing tactics which enable them to husband their strength, and to be antic confident about the issue, as they have always been. We shall do well to regard this tremendous and prolonged battle, which will probably prove more sanguinary than any conflict yet fought in the West, with the unstakes screnity which marks the attitude of the brench authorities. The capture of Donaumont, should it be eventually confirmed, does not in the least carry the meaning which would have attached to it three or four years ago. Its chef interest would lie in the indication of the ground gained, and it has no other serious importance. Our Military Correspondent, while acknowledging that the attach on Verdun is "the real thing at last," and that the German have evidently decided to put their fortunes to the touch in the West, targes in effect that a sense of proportion must be preserved even in contemplating these nupertous operations. Our correspondent further hints that the attack on Verdun may not in the send prove to be the principal operation.

vances were made on the battle front, in the presence of His Majesty the King-Emperor.

Our brave troops gained possession of the hills to the south-west of the village of Louvemont, as well as the group of fortified positions situated to the east thereof.

In a fierce rush forward the Brandenburg Regiments pushed on as far as the village, and the armoured fort of Douaumont, which they carried by storm.

In the plain of the Woevre the enemy's resistance broke down along the entire front as far as the neighbourhood of Marphoville, to the south of the matural high road from Prail to the south without flinching in the face of furious German attacks. The French are following with interest, but without the slightest anxiety, the course of a flattle which is without anxiety of men and material in a confined area. They know that behind the position to which we have withdrawn of our own free will in order to avoid useless losses, and to leave the field clear for our artillery, there are reserves of men fully equal in numbers to the effectives massed together by the enemy, who are only waiting for the hour to intervene and make him pay dearly for his attack.

It is believed that almost all the passenger have been saved. As soon as the names of those landed have been received they will be published. All the ship's boats were swang out ready for any emergency. Before the accident the passengers, fortunately, bad time og their lifebelts on, shey having been instructed the previous evening in regard to their use. The captain's report is that all the passengers and the ship's crew, European since the opening of the action is hardly half of that mentioned on the 25th by the Ger-mars. On February 25th at 8.55 a.m. the Wolff Agency announced that the armoured fort of Douaumont, which constituted to the rorth-east the pillar of the angle of the prin-eipal line of permanent fortifications of Ver-dun, had been captured by assault the pre-vious afterneon by the Brandenburg infantry their use. The captain's report is that all the passengers and the ship's crew. European and native, behaved splendidly. The list of passengers who embarked in London is attached.

The P. and O. Company have arranged for their ss. Arabia to take the Maloja's mails from Marseilles overland. The passengers who had arranged to leave London on Friday morning, March 3rd, to join the Maloja at Marseilles will now leave on Monday, March 6th.

The Maloja was one of the latest liners built for the P. and O. fleet by Mesars. Harland and Wolff. Ltd. She was launched at Belfast on 17th December, 1910. running her trialis on the 9th September, 1911. She was practically a sister ship of the Medira, built at the same time at Greenock, and selected for the Royal visit to the Durbar. A twin-screw passenger and mail steamer, the Maloja was at the time of her launch the largest ship built for the P. and O. Co. She was constructed for the Australian trade, in which she ouiced to the desirable of thousands of your own ountry's children by an unduly protracted country's children by an unduly protracted

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)
WASHINGTON, SATURDAY.

The Administration now believes that no action will be taken in Congress in opposition to President Wilson's wishes, as the ardour of the majority of Congressmen who favour the warning of Americans not to travel by armed ships has apparently cooled under the land of the President's Note to Mr. Stone. It is authoritatively stated that reports received at the White House from the Capitol above that the Senate and the House of Representatives stand firmly behind President Wilson in his refusal to permit an abridgment of the rights of Americans by the Germans.

EXPENDITURE ON THE CIVIL IRISH HEALTH INSURANCE

Drastic recommendations are contained in the final report of the Government Committee on Retrenchment in Public Expenditure. It is suggested that sub-departments in the Board of Trade after the war should be reorganised, and in the Board of Agriculture the numbers and salaries of the higher administrative staffs should be curtailed.

The Committee consider a special inquiry into the administrative staff of the Local Government Board desirable, and specially recommend the reduction of feee paid to medical practitioners for notification of infectious diseases.
